DAILY COTTON LETTER. NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The following is e daily cotton letter of Atwood, Violett Co. by private wire to C. W. Branch

A review of the cotton situation during the past skxiy days shows about as follows: Up to the middle of October Liverspool sales were from 12,000 to 15,000 bales daily, and spinners showed, thereby, a disposition to fill not only immediate requirements, but future necessities, insumuch as their supplies were unusually small, according to Mr. Ellison, the Elisish and conting to Mr. Ellison, the Elisish and the state of 17,000 has to the out-turn ten and one-haif months before the end of the cotton year. The English and Continental spinners immediately accepted this estimate, with as much feeling of certainty as though the 21st of August, 1884, had matured and the size of the crop fully known, and from the date of issue of this estimate the market gradually decilined, until on Monday last, when the total had been more than 20 points lower than the prices ruling before this estimate was promulgated. Then followed the movement that did not confirm large crop ideas, but during the last three or four weeks the movement has been a neavy one, which still further demoralized the long interest in contracts, and the spot holder in the South. Crop betting has been another element in the situation to bear cotton by betting 1 to 3 on 8,000,000 baies; 1 to 5 on 8,20,000 baies, and mough we have not heard of any higner estimates, we suppose that about 1 to 10 on 10,000,000 would loose sight of the odds that were offered. We have had now from the decline Monday last, a recovery of 40 points, including the advance of yesterday, of which 10 points look been lost. The amount in sight, a recovery of 40 points, including the advance of yesterday, of which 10 points look been lost. The amount in sight, a recovery of the price of information, and that of every other firm in this market, and a twee had proposed that should be a proposed to the same effect on the sight of the could be a few and there of the form of the foreign and domestic spinner can be disabased as to large crop ander type, and if the American of his point of the foreign and domestic spinner can be exceedin concerns in operation, but there does not appear to be much gain in actual compensation. The purchase of 1,500,000 tons of Alabama coke iron was made at $7.50 at the mill. At Pittsburg, where business seems more active than elsewhere, the mills are not fully employed and the state of manufacture is shown by the return of Connelleville coke furnaces, of which 6,885 are in operation, and 11.05 are idle, the output being only 67.785 tons weekly. tF CRACE-STREET BAPTIST CHURCH (corner Grace and Foughee streets), Rev. few orders ahead and more are starting up.

At Baltimore there is only a moderate trade in general merchandise, although reports from the South point to improvement. The large tobacco crop has depressed prices. There is some improvement reported from Cincinnati, where manufacturers are active. Trade remains quiet in Louisville, except that the demand for tobacco is strong.

At the South improvement is noted in cotton, as well as demand of various products at Atlanta, Chattanooga, and Birmingham. Fertilizer debts are being paid more promptly than in previous years, although easier money at those points affects only best name paper. Charleston reports trade very quiet; jobbers are choosing customers and country buyers taking for needs only. About half of the South Carolina rice crop escaped the evolone, and is now coming to market. Practically no change is noticed in the business at Nashville, while Galveston trade in heavy goods has been checked by mild weather, and at Houston there is less improvement in the demand than was expected. 1. THE REVERIES OF A BACHELOR: OR, A BOOK OF THE HEART. By IK. MARVEL (Donald G. Mitchell.)

This American classic has enjoyed a world wide circulation at its price of $1.25. It is now offered for the first time at a nominal cost to our subscribers. How agreeable is "Ik. Marvel" in this gem of a book from his pen, how quaint, how humorous, philosophical, pathetic and charming. 2. LAYE OF ANCIENT ROME. By LORD MACAULAY. Beautifully Illustrated. Macaulay's "Lays" are instinct with the very soul of poetry, and are full of heroic action and energy. Like Scott's spirit-stirring ballads, they have a fine picturesque quality, with graphic breadth and great realistic power of expression. The English, no less than the Roman lays, have the breadth of the battle-field and the sounding notes of the charge to battle. The illustrations of this edition are unique, being executed in delicate outline.

8. A TILLYLOSS SCANDAL. By J. M. BARRIE A new work by J. M. Barrie, author of the Scottish classic, "The Little Minister," which has had a phenomenal sale, may be expected to whet the literary appetite of every intelligent reader of high-class fiction. In stories of humbie Scottish peasant life, Mr. Barrie is on his own special ground. He knows the characteristics of the Scottish weaver and the peasant class as the salior knows the sea. His sketches are full of a dry, quaint humor, with a strong realism and great force and directness of narrative power. Never, since Scott's day, has Lowland Scottish fiction had such an interpreter or so entrancing a depictor of character, lit up, at the same time, with odd situations and amusing or droll incident.

or droll incident. 4. THE HOUSE OF THE SEVEN GABLES. By NATHANIEL HAWTBORNE. This masterpiece of Hawthorne's is full of the imaginative charm of romance. In felicity of touch, its author is unapproached by any writer since his own day. The work is, perhaps, the purest piece of poetic prose in all the range of

5. CRANFORD. By Mrs. GASKELL.

American literature.

"Cranford," in its charming miniature painting and sketches of character, re-calls the best of Jane Austen's novels. It is a delightful picture of old world social life in an English country village, descriptive of the feelings, habits, opin-ions, character and social conditions of the little community. The story is quiet earnestness and with fine literary aptitudes in the writer. It is beautifully illustrated. 6. THE COMING RACE. By LORD LYTTON.

"The Coming Race," by Lord Lytton, is a clever and ingenious excursion into the scalm of science, as the inventive mind of man may find it in the coming time. It presents a curious but fascinating picture of the human eavironments, as we may see it realized in the next century, when human needs will be served by every resource of electrical and mechanical contrivance—when "the coming race," for instance, will be enabled to exchange domestic helps for ingenious and mercury-footed automatons, and have at command every appliance adapted to the marvellously changed social and industrial condition of things. The work is the product of a fanciful but rarely gifted and versatile mind. DREAM LIFE. By IK. MARVEL (Donald G. Mitchell.)

There is a profound mental study in this world-wide American classic. It contains a series of very vivid and picturesque studies of individual character and feeling. It has a fascinating power over the reader, while its graceful distion charms the literary appreciation and fills the mind with delightful, though sometimes pathetic pictures. S. FRANKENSTEIN; OR, THE MODERN PROMETHEUS. By MES. SHELLEY Like Mrs. Crowe's "Night Side of Nature," Mrs. Shelley's "Frankenstein" is a book every one should read. Its author has great imaginative powers and a weird but original genius. There are passages in "Frankenstein" that appai the mind and make the flesh creep. Once read, the book can hardly ever be for-

9. A BOOK OF GOLDEN DEEDS. By C. M. Yorker This is just the book to put into the hand of youth, circulating a healthy morellty, and true manly and womanly sentiments. Few books are better formed than this to develop and mould the tastes of the rising generation and encourage optimistle and patriotle toeas. 10. MOSSES FROM AN OLD MANSE. By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE. Another delightful companion for idle hours is this collection of magazine pers, which Hawthorne entitled "Mosnes from an Old Manse." Like all his works, it is distinguished for its simplicity and truth. Its high literary excellence commends it anew to public favor.

11. THE SCARLET LETTER. By NATHANIEL HAWTHORSE. A romance of intense interest, exhibiting extraordinary power of mental analysis and graphic description. For an artistic exposition of Puritanism, as modified by New Englant colonial life, we have nothing like it in our literature. Like the best of Scott's novels, it is true at once to the local manners and scenie features of the age and place. 12. ESSAYS OF ELIA. By CHARLES LAMB. These charming ensays are full of a gay humor, interspersed with many siy this, happy puns and bright scintillations of wit; carefully elaborated as they are, hits, happy puns and bright scintillations of wit; carefully elaborated as they are, they are written with the utmost ease and grace, and composed in a spirit at they are written with the utmost ease and grace, and common paths of once delicate and unobtrusive. Seeking his material in the common paths of life—even the humblest—Lamb gives an importance to everything and sheds a grace over all. This beautifully illustrated edition of a famous English classic will increase its attractions for those who recognize the claim it has as essentially a "home book" for the whole reading world. Goldsmith has thed over the world the book" for the whole reading world. Goldsmith has thed over the world the tenderest light of his genius, and the pastoral scenes in it are unrivalled, we tenderest light of his genius, and the pastoral scenes in it are unrivalled, we had almost said unapproached, by any other writer of fiction. As Sir Walter had almost said unapproached, by any other writer of fiction. As Sir Walter had almost said unapproached, by any other writer of fiction. As Sir Walter had almost said of it, "We read the vicar of Wakefield in youth and hage and return to it again and again, and bless the memory of an author who contrives so well to reconcile us to human nature." The book, throughout its fascinating pages, to reconcile us to human nature." The book, throughout its fascinating pages, exhibits all the characteristic traits of "Poor Poli"—a genial fancy, and the most diverting simplicity.

14. TWICE TOLD TALES. By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNS Hawthorne, the most distinctly American and by far the most popular of our writers, has given the world an undying book in "Twice-Told Tales." The stories writers, has given the world an annual, published now over fifty years sign, and were originally contributed to an Annual, published now over fifty years sign, and being subsequently reprinted, are in reality "Twice-Told 'ales." They have all being subsequently reprinted, are in reality "Twice-Told 'ales." They have all being subsequently reprinted, as well as the subtlety of thought and insight, which the felicity of expression, as well as the subtlety of thought and insight, which are the special charm of the author of "The Scarlet Letter." Each story breathes are the special charm of the author of "The Scarlet Letter." Each story breathes are the special charm of the author of the special charm of the author of the subsequently story that the special charm of the author of the special charm of the subsequently story.

15. PAUL AND VIRGINIA. By BERNARDIN DE SAINT PIERRE. 5. PAUL AND VINGIMIA. By BERNARDIN DE SAINT PIERRE.

This idylic story, by a classic French writer of the wholesome romantic school, is an immortal book, and has won a place for itself in the homes of almost every people who possess a literature and can appreciate the work of genius. It may, with some literary propriety, be termed an idealized Robinson Crusoe, and it has all the fascination of that renowned work. It is a book that is sure to go down the centuries, charming as well as edifying generations yet unborn.

16. STORY OF AN AFRICAN FARM. By (Ralph Iron) Olive Schreiner has written an extraordinarily powerful story, full of graphic descriptions and the most appealing pathos. The author seems to have followed no recognized mode of romance, pathos. The author seems to have followed no recognized mode of romance, but struck out a new path in action for herself. STORY OF AN AFRICAN FARM. By (Ralph Iron) OLIVE SCHREINER

17. LAYS OF THE SCOTTISH CAVALIERS.

By WM. EDMONSTOUNE AYTOUN.

These stirring ballads of Professor Aytoun, of Blackwood fame, have their only rival in Macaulay's "Lays of Ancient Rome." Their popularity is not less only rival in Macaulay's "Lays of Ancient Rome." Their popularity is not less only rival in the fact that they are to be met with in every school reader and in the ed by the fact that they are to be met with in every school reader and in the repertoire of most elocutionists and platform declaimers. Nor is pepular appreciation affected by the fact that their author, in enshrining in patriotic and couls stirring verse the heroic incidents of Scottish history, takes the "Royalist" side as against that of the "Covenanters."

18. LUCILE. By OWEN MEREDITH (Robert Lord Lytton.) "Lucile," by the second Lord Lytton, late Governor-General of India and British Ambassador to Paris, is a novel in verse, who rhymed couplets, cast somewhat in the mould of Mrs. Browning's "Aurora Leigh." It is an enchanting what in the mould of Mrs. Browning's "Aurora Leigh." It is an enchanting what in the strong admixture of romantic thought, plus fertility of invention and brilliant dialogue.

19. DREAMS. By (Ralph Iron) OLIVE SCHREINER. 9. DREAMS. By (Kaiph 170n) Olive Schreiner.

Though unlike the "Story of an African Farm," "Dreams" has many of the characteristics which made Miss Schreiner's early work famous. The book is both interesting and suggestive, and, besides its high meditative qualities, is rich in interesting and suggestive, and absides its high meditative qualities, is rich in interesting and suggestive, and lay before the thoughtful reader. "Dreams" lights to propound to herself and lay before the thoughtful reader. "Dreams" is manifestly the work of a rare and uncommon mind.

20. BLACK BEAUTY. By ANNA SEWELL

"Black Beauty" is a horse, and the story Miss Sewell so feelingly tells us is its autobiography. The tale well deserves its great popularity, for it is wonderfully realistic, and makes a strong appeal to those who love dumb animals wonderfully realistic of common humanity. It is a book to charm and imand possess the instinct of common humanity. It is a book to charm and impress all who have to do with horses, especially those who seek to suppress that most senseless of all vices, cruelty to animals.
